Rarely do site and structure so perfectly align to evoke a lasting sense of wonder. Situated atop the bluff with private stairs to one of five natural salt-water pools built into the Laguna Beach coastline, 58 North La Senda presents a unique experience born from its premier location and a eight-year journey for architectural excellency. Designed by Horst Architects, Chris Light, and Aria Design, the approx 6,100 SF estate basks in the prestige of its creators, with incredible features that include indoor-outdoor living, panoramic views from virtually every space, a lap pool measuring 51 ft, detached guest studio, and two garages accommodating six cars, car turntable, and car service pit. Keen intellect was deployed to integrate the home's original footprint into the soft contemporary design that showcases views through open living spaces and 2-story walls of windows. Thoughtful design elements are evident throughout the home including a driveway engineered for low suspension vehicles, planters and outdoor living that give the illusion of entering on grade, and a staircase that disappears under the great room to best reveal the cliff below. A dditional highlights of the revered estate include a wine cellar, poker space, and theater with window to garage, as well as, multiple terraces, fire pit, and clifftop driving range platform. Fit with video surveillance and private gates, all within the guarded community of Three Arch Bay, there is no better place to escape the mundane.
